Recent involvement in violent protest activity at G20, with Victorian court matter pending. POI is heavily involved in the chat room currently for APEC ACDC. Calls for mass civil disobedience and direct action against APEC. VicPOL states says she is not attending APEC due to bail conditions, however has indicated she may still go. Has stated she wants to throw a molotov cocktail at the water cannon. If she does not attend, it is believed she will be involved in action at Monash University. Should be considered as very militant.

PARAMETER	1 & 2
ASSESSMENT DATE	22/08/2007

ASSESSMENT

Cl 6(1) is a leading member of Mutiny. Mutiny have a history of conducting violent and disruptive protest actions. Recent protest activity by the group has taken the form of decentralised action, that is, targeting corporations or government departments via corporate engagements. Whilst members of Mutiny participated in violent protest that occurred in Melbourne during the G20 Finance Meeting in 2006, Cl 6(1) was observed to be providing leadership and direction to such individuals. Cl 6(1) has Victorian court matter pending in relation to offences committed during G20 protest activity. For at least the past four years, Cl 6(1) has actively participated in protest activity targeted selected persons, organisations and events. Initially, his activities were mainly focused on refugee rights and local issues such as Aboriginal youths and student rights. Over the past eighteen months however, his focus appears to have shifted toward anti-globalisation activity as demonstrated by his participation in the protests against the Forbes Conference and G20. Based on protests that Cl 6(1) has organised and/or participated in, it is assessed that Cl 6(1) has a strong dislike towards police, willing to commit acts of malicious damage, will use masks to disguise his identity and will incite others to commit acts of violence including violence against police. Cl 6(1) is a supporter of movements such as the Black Panther Party; a militant socialist organisation which advocated violence as an agent for change. Cl 6(1) ideologies, Intelligence and level of education make him a particularly high risk activist, especially as he has the ability to recruit other individuals and encouraged their participation in disruptive protest actions which may lead to violence. Current Intelligence indicates that Cl 6(1) is involved with a group planning for disruptive protest actions targeted towards APEC Leaders Week. This group of persons has considered potential targets for protest actions, possible tactics to be used against police and methods to avoid arrest which indicates a militant approach by the group.

ASSESSMENT

Cl 6(1) has previously come to NSW Police attention as an anti-war protestor. Cl 6(1) is the partner of Cl 6(1) leading member of Mutiny. In 2000, Cl 6(1) established a PO Box which is currently utilised as the mailing address for Mutiny.

Mutiny is an anarchist group consisting of a number of layers of trust and information management. Currently it consists of a small group of individuals who form what appears to be an inner core group responsible for the clandestine planning and preparation for violence and malicious damage aimed at police and APEC corporate targets. This core group meets regularly at a covert location to discuss the details of these plans. The last known such meeting took place on 2 September 2007. Cl 6(1) Cl 6(1) is a member of this group and attends these meetings.

Intelligence indicates that Cl 6(1) is contributing to the organisation of FLARE in the Void, an activist convergence to take place during APEC Leaders Week. On Wednesday 22 August 2007, Cl 6(1) attended a public meeting in Sydney which was a forum to discuss mass direct action during Leaders Week. At this forum Cl 6(1) addressed the audience speaking about direction action.

ASSESSMENT

Cl 6(1) has a history of involvement in protests including the Sydney protest against US VP Cheney, protest against PM John Howard in June 2007, UTS Careers Fair protest targeting the Department of Defence stall, and participation in a student sit-in of a CBD intersection in April 2006. A1 Intelligence indicates that on 27 March 2007 Cl 6(1) was part of a small group of Mutiny members who attempted to maliciously damage the ASIS/Defence stall at the UTS by deploying 'stink bombs' and red dye. Due to a proactive operation their efforts were thwarted.

Mutiny is an anarchist group consisting of a number of layers of trust and information management. Currently it consists of a small group of individuals who form what appears to be an inner core group responsible for the clandestine planning and preparation for violence and malicious damage aimed at police and APEC corporate targets. This core group meets regularly at a covert location to discuss the details of these plans. The last known such meeting took place on 2 September 2007. Cl 6(1) is a member of this group and attends these meetings.

Members of Mutiny participated in violent protest that occurred in Melbourne during the G20 Finance Meeting in 2006. Whilst Cl 6(1) was not arrested for involvement in any G20-related protests, NSW Police can confirm that he was present in Melbourne during this time and associated with Cl 6(1)

COPS holdings relate to Cl 6(1) being present during Forbes Conference protests, an association with well known activist Cl 6(1) and involvement in a Mutiny related protest at the UTS Careers Fair during March 2007. Cl 6(1) was observed by NSW Police to provide support to Cl 6(1) leading Mutiny member, when he faced a Sydney Court in 2007 relating to a Victorian warrant following offences committed during G20 protests.

Cl 6(1) role within Mutiny appears to be as a communicator and planner as he has written several emails outlining details of meetings, campaign information strategies and promoting the groups ideologies. Cl 6(1) was a primary contact for Mutiny in the lead up to the Forbes Global CEO Conference in 2005 and was influential as a communicator and planner for the protest action at the conference including the Subplot Anarchist Conference.

In August 2007, Cl 6(1) circulated an email calling for "shared intent against the violence of APEC" and invitations to a public meeting on "APEC & Direct Action" which was held at UTS on 22 August. The call out mentioned APEC venues, called for a collective participation in direct action and advised of direct action training sessions being held in Sydney & Melbourne. Of note was the following statement: "We want to use their borders against them. Our proposal is to disrupt their meeting by disrupting their control of the space, to challenge the exclusivity of their politics. We want to laugh together and keep each other tight at barricades, move together as a mobile obstruction and where we see a border silence us, we challenge them, we turn their zones into the political forum we want to have."

Cl 6(1) is the registered owner of vehicle Cl 6(1) a black Holden Caprice Sedan Cl 6(1) observed at T3 Arrivals Sydney Domestic Airport at 18:16 on 30 August 2007. He was spoken to by police and was observed to be the holder of APEC accreditation in a clear plastic sleeve for himself and displayed in the window of his vehicle. Cl 6(1) stated he was not at the airport on APEC duty and was collecting a private passenger. He further stated he was not able to remove his accreditation due to being "on-call" to the US Consulate. The vehicle was also observed to have 'police style' red / blue strobe lights against the windscreen.

There are a number of COPS events and Intelligence reports indicating Cl 6(1) is the driver of a Cl 6(1) He has a lengthy criminal history, with 13 charges, 85 event reports and 20 Intelligence reports recorded to date. Cl 6(1) has warnings and a number of Intelligence reports which record he is hostile and aggressive towards police when stopped and questioned and that he will make complaints and threaten complaints against police in an effort to intimidate.

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION ACT (1989)

Cl 6(1) has been observed by police and a community source to possess police style lights on the dashboard of two vehicles[1], giving the appearance of an unmarked police vehicle. On one occasion he was stopped and searched by police and was found with a mini baseball bat hidden beside the seat and driver's console. Furthermore a community source observed a male, believed to be Cl 6(1) drive behind a female passenger, flash these lights causing the female to pull over and then proceed to flash a wallet in the manner police might display a badge and warrant card. These factors may indicate Cl 6(1) is impersonating police officers to pull over and potentially rob or assault unsuspecting drivers. He has been told by police to remove the lights from the dashboard.

Of interest is that Cl 6(1) has Intelligence dating back to 1998 indicating he possesses and sells police identification badges, is in possession of a firearm, a replica firearm, ammunition and is involved in the manufacture of explosives. (No corroborating evidence has been found in relation to the firearms or explosives, although he did previously hold a security licence). Cl 6(1) has also previously indicated to police a willingness to falsify documents if necessary, to ensure his brother Cl 6(1) did not have to serve weekend detention.

Cl 6(1) history indicates he has a tendency to impersonate police vehicles / officers, drive whilst disqualified and intimidate police. The nature of his criminality indicates a tendency towards theft, a willingness to falsify documents, and a willingness be aggressive and argue with police over police authority. He has an expired security licence (Exp: 8/12/91) and renewal application was refused in 1992 due to adverse criminal history.

Given this history, enquiries were made with the APEC Accreditation Manager who advised that Cl 6(1) had accreditation as a US Delegate (which is a status that was conferred to ancillary staff, drivers etc). This status allowed him access to numerous restricted areas including areas within the Sydney Opera House and Sydney International Airport. Based on Cl 6(1) criminal history and Intelligence holdings, it was deemed a possibility that he may commit offences and/or misuse his accreditation whilst performing duties. His APEC accreditation has subsequently been revoked.

Even though Cl 6(1) is no longer accredited, he may attempt to access APEC venues and may reach secure areas through impersonation of police. His previous history and Intelligence indicate he poses a serious threat to persons and/or property and should be considered for exclusion.

Cl 6(1) was involved in the protest action organised by Greenpeace at Port Waratah in Newcastle on Sunday 2 September 2007. Eleven activists, including Cl 6(1) in three boats, painted a slogan "Australia Pushing Export Coal" (NB: initials of the slogan are APEC) on the NSS Endeavour. A Greenpeace spokesman confirmed that this action was APEC related. They also unfurled a banner, written in Chinese, claiming that Australia and the US would attempt to undermine the Kyoto Protocol. They were charged with malicious damage (E 31178232). As Cl 6(1) resides in Sydney, her willingness to travel to Newcastle to participate in protest activity indicates that she may have a high level of commitment to Greenpeace and other environment issue motivated groups (IMGs).

Cl 6(1) is not known on COPS for protest activity. Her most recent contact with police was on 18/08/2007, when she was warned for consuming alcohol in an alcohol free zone (Hyde Park). She is listed as a student on COPS. Cl 6(1) was not located on open source checks.

Greenpeace are well known for high visibility protests including the use of banners, graffiti and projections. Most of these actions result in malicious damage and/or trespass charges. Climate change is considered a primary topic of discussion during APEC 2007 Leaders Week. It is therefore expected that they will organise a number of these actions, some of these in closer proximity to APEC venues.

Activists involved in today's action have demonstrated that they are willing to travel some distance and place themselves in dangerous conditions in order to conduct anti-APEC protest activity. As such, Cl 6(1) satisfies the criteria to be listed as an excluded person as it is possible she will conduct further protest action that will pose a serious threat to persons and/or property.

Cl 6(1) is well known for protest activity conducted on behalf of Greenpeace. In July 2005, she climbed onto a coal loader at Port Waratah and suspended herself with ropes. Police noted this was a dangerous action and Police Rescue had to utilise a cherry picker to remove her. She was charged with Enter Prescribed Premises and Risk Safety of Another by Climbing Building/Structure. In 2001, Cl 6(1) participated in a Greenpeace protest at the Australian Nuclear Science Technology Organisation (ANTSO) in Lucas Heights. Thirty protestors, including Cl 6(1) unlawfully entered the facility and established positions on the rooftop of a building and unfurled banners. She was charged with Trespass on Commonwealth Land. In 1998, Cl 6(1) and six other Greenpeace activists locked themselves onto a container ship in protest of transportation of toxic materials. In 1997, Cl 6(1) and sixteen other Greenpeace activists climbed the front gate of the Prime Ministers residence in Kirribilli and set up solar panels and signs. They refused to leave the location when directed to and were charged with trespassing on Commonwealth property. An Intelligence report entered in February 2001 notes Cl 6(1) was involved in a Greenpeace protest in Port Botany which involved a number of rigid inflatable boats attempting to stop a container ship from berthing.

ASSESSMENT

Cl 6(1) was involved in the protest action organised by Greenpeace at Port Waratah in Newcastle on Sunday 2 September 2007. Eleven activists, including Cl 6(1) in three boats, painted a slogan "Australia Pushing Export Coal" (NB: initials of the slogan are APEC) on the NSS Endeavour. A Greenpeace spokesman confirmed that this action was APEC related. They also unfurled a banner, written in Chinese, claiming that Australia and the US would attempt to undermine the Kyoto Protocol. They were charged with malicious damage (E 31178232). As Cl 6(1) resides in Sydney, her willingness to travel to Newcastle to participate in protest activity indicates that she may have a high level of commitment to Greenpeace and other environment issue motivated groups (IMGs).

Cl 6(1) is known on COPS for protest activity. In April 2003, Cl 6(1) and several other activists attempted to prevent the HMAS Sydney from leaving Sydney Harbour. It was an elaborate protest, involving divers, persons on surfboards and boats. Her listed occupation on COPS is "fundraiser". Fundraising roles apply to charities or issue motivated groups (IMGs) and it is possible that she performs this role for Greenpeace or a related IMG.

Greenpeace are well known for high visibility protests including the use of banners, graffiti and projections. Most of these actions result in malicious damage and/or trespass charges. Climate change is considered a primary topic of discussion during APEC 2007 Leaders Week. It is therefore expected that they will organise a number of these actions, some of these in closer proximity to APEC venues.

Activists involved in today's action have demonstrated that they are willing to travel some distance and place themselves in dangerous conditions in order to conduct anti-APEC protest activity. As such, Cl 6(1) satisfies the criteria to be listed as an excluded person as it is possible she will conduct further protest action that will pose a serious threat to persons and/or property.

Cl 6(1)

In July 2007, Cl 6(1) credit card was used for payment for hire of a 12 seater bus and trailer which was used to convey student activists to Perth WA. Cl 6(1) Cl 6(1) associate of anarchist group Mutiny, was among the group of students who travelled from Sydney to Perth. In Perth, the group attended the Students of Sustainability conference and participated in a protest at the office of the Federal Education, Science & Training Minister. The protest developed into an occupation of the building foyer and police were required to physically remove demonstrators from the area.

Cl 6(1) has provided endorsement for the Student Walkout Against George (WAG) Bush demonstration to be held at Belmore Park on Wednesday 5 September 2007. Cl 6(1) supports peaceful direct action and has signed her name to a pledge to take such action against expansion of coal export in Newcastle.

On 8 August 2007, Stop Bush Coalition announced its proposed march route despite police statements that no march will be allowed within the APEC declared area. Cl 6(1) was noted as being present in support of the press release.

Cl 6(1) was arrested on 4 September 2007, being one of eleven demonstrators whom entered the grounds of the Port Waratah Coal Services. The group split and commenced several lock-ons on a number of machinery which caused the entire coal loading facility to cease operation for a period of approximately four hours. Several demonstrators attached a banner from a piece of coal loading equipment which stated "APEC FUELS CLIMATE CHAOS." Cl 6(1) Cl 6(1) took an active role in this demonstration. Spokesperson, Cl 6(1) stated the protest action was directed towards "the Bush and Howard climate agenda."

According to the facts sheet:
Once the accused Cl 6(1) entered the lands she has then made her way to reclaimer No.2 where she has climbed onto the machine and assisted her co-accused Cl 6(1) to secure himself to the structure by placing a bike lock around his neck and through a guard rail. Upon Police arrival the accused was informed of all LEPRA provisions and arrested before being conveyed to Newcastle Police Station to be charged with the offence.

Bail conditions state that Cl 6(1) is not to enter or go within 100 metres of the declared areas or designated restricted areas in accordance with the legislation as the outer parts of APEC security area, Sydney CBD, North of King Street, the area around the Sydney Convention and Entertainment Centre at Darling Harbour and Hickson Road, The Rocks other than to attend work. During APEC 2007 September 2 - 11, 2007.

It is likely that Cl 6(1) will participate in further protest activity during APEC Leaders Week organised by ASEN, Rising Tide, Resistance, Stop Bush Coalition or Mutiny. Protest activity is likely to take the form of direct action which can result in disruption, malicious damage or violence.

Cl 6(1) has participated in several protests which feature the use of a lock-on device. On 8 June 2007, Cl 6(1) was the spokesperson for approximately 20 demonstrators who attended the Department of Natural Resources and Land office to protest against the decision to mine Anvil Hill. During the protest a person dressed in a polar bear suit chained themselves to the main entrance obstructing access. After discussions between Cl 6(1) and police, the person unchained themselves from the door and the group moved on without incident.

Cl 6(1) was arrested on 4 September 2007, being one of eleven demonstrators whom entered the grounds of the Port Waratah Coal Services. The group split and commenced several lock-ons on a number of machinery which caused the entire coal loading facility to cease operation for a period of approximately four hours. Several demonstrators attached a banner from a piece of coal loading equipment which stated "APEC=FUELS CLIMATE CHAOS." Cl 6(1) took an active role in this demonstration. Spokesperson, Cl 6(1) stated the protest action was directed towards "the Bush and Howard climate agenda."

According to the facts sheet:
The accused Cl 6(1) and approximately eight other protestors scaled structure known as 'Stacker no.4'. The protestors then attempted to secure a banner to the structure. The accused and co-accused Cl 6(1) remained on the structure with Cl 6(1) securing herself to the structure using a rigid bicycle lock placed around her neck and fixed to a handrail support. Cl 6(1) was subsequently searched and located within her left sock was the key for the lock. Cl 6(1) was released without further incident or injury.

During the charging process on 4 September, Cl 6(1) has made a phone call to an alleged solicitor who advised cl 6(1) not to allow police to take her photograph. cl 6(1) asked police whether her photograph would be used for any other process in the next few weeks. These enquiries indicate that cl 6(1) cl 6(1) is concerned that her actions at the Port Waratah Coal Services may be of interest to the NSW Police APEC security response and implies an interest to attend Sydney to participate in further demonstrations. cl 6(1) has a history of participating in demonstrations which utilise disruptive tactics such as lock-on devices. A demonstration of this nature in Sydney during Leaders Week has the ability to result in disruption to the general community and to the APEC schedule.

Bail conditions state that cl 6(1) is not to enter or go within 100 metres of the declared areas or designated restricted areas in accordance with the legislation as the outer parts of APEC security area, Sydney CBD, North of King Street, the area around the Sydney Convention and Entertainment Centre at Darling Harbour and Hickson Road, The Rocks other than to attend work.
